No. 75.

Subsidiary Return showing the Proportion between the Number of Convicts in each Class, and the Number brought before Magistrates, during the Year 1849: prepared by comparison between the several Returns furnished by Magistrates in charge of Police Districts to the Chief Police Magistrate, and a Return of the Number of Convicts in each Class furnished by the Comptroller-General's Department; exclusive of Tasman's Peninsula, and Norfolk and Maria Islands, as well as of Prisoners brought before Visiting Magistrates of the Convict Department, who report direct to the Comptroller-General.

PARTICULARS.	On Probation or under Sentence.	Pass-holders.	Ticket-of-Leave holders.	TOTAL.
Average Number during the Year, per Subsidiary Return, No. 74	2374	11,109	10,363	23,846
Number brought before Magistrates, per Return No. 70	183	7946	4386	12,515
Proportion per cent	7.71	71.52	42:32	52.48

Note.—The number of Convicts on Probation or under Sentence brought before Magistrates appears to be a very small proportion of the whole of the number in that class, but it is especially the class of Convicts under the jurisdiction of the Visiting Magistrates of the Convict Department; and, by reference to the Return No. 70, it will be seen that in general it is only for grave offences that they come within these Returns.

FRANCIS BURGESS, Chief Police Magistrate.

No. 76.

Subsidiary Return showing the Proportion between the Number of Free Persons in the Colony of Van Diemen's Land,—distinguishing those who either arrived Free or were born in the Colony from those who have become Free by Servitude or Pardon,—and the Number brought before Magistrates, as shown by the several Returns furnished by Magistrates in charge of Police Districts to the Chief Police Magistrate, during the Year 1849.

PARTICULARS.	Arrived Free and born in the Colony.	Became Free by Servitude or Pardon.	TOTAL.
Free Persons in the Colony Number brought before Magistrates Military, and Children under 14	34,175 1,672 15,980	15,180 5,361 ··	49,355 7,033
Proportion per cent	4·89 9·18	35:31	14.3

Note 1.—The number in the 1st column (34,175) is obtained by deducting from 49,355 in the Statistical Return the number of those who had become free by Servitude or Pardon on 1st January, 1849, per last Year's corresponding Return, those of this class who have arrived in the Colony, and those who have become free during 1849; deducting from the Total the number who emigrated within the period: the difference being the result above given. The same operation up to the last step gives 15,180 for the 2nd column.

Note 2. —Of the number brought before Magistrates in the 2nd column, 6 hold Conditional Pardons after Colonial conviction and sentence.

General Remarks upon the Weather during 1849.

There was an intensely hot wind on Saturday, the 27th of January, which continued throughout the night, and until the afternoon of Sunday, when the atmosphere was relieved by a violent thunder-storm and heavy rain. During the continuance of this hot wind the Thermometer stood in the shade as high as 105°.

It was the only one of any note throughout the year.

The principal feature in the weather during 1849 was the unusual quantity of Rain which fell—considerably more than has yet been registered in any year since the establishment of the Observatory in 1840. It has entirely contradicted the assumption (which the observations of previous years had warranted) of the alternation of wet and dry seasons. The months of May, July, and November were particularly distinguished; and in the latter month alone there were 9 inches of rain—a very unusual monthly quantity for this climate. The mean temperature of November is below the average, owing to the constant wet, cold weather: and at Midsummer—viz. on the 23rd of December—Mount Wellington was completely covered with snow, extending down to the low hills in its vicinity. The weather during the night of the 22nd of December, and morning of the 23rd, was as severe and inclement as during any day in Mid-winter.

J. H. KAY, Commander Royal Navy, and Director of the Observatory.

Note.—In the Statistics of Van Diemen's Land for 1848, page 47, No. 74, the mean Barometer for the month of June is given as "29.041 inches" instead of "29.941 inches."
